Carpentier First to Arrive at Ring Goes Almost Unnoticed by Crowd to Dressing Room. Many Women Attend Great Fight. Slight Shower Ceases as Time for Main Card Arrives.

DEMPSEY RETAINS TITLE

Ringside, Jersey City, July 2.—George Carpentier finished flat on his face his legs and arms outstretched in the fourth round.

Jack Dempsey the world's heavyweight champion knocked him out a few seconds after the round opened sending him heavily to the canvass with a short right poke to the chin. The actual time of fighting in the fourth round was one minute and sixteen seconds. Previous to the knockout Carpentier was floored with a left to the body and a right to the chin. Carpentier took a count of nine before springing to his feet where the grim, determined Dempsey measured him with a punch of to the chin which ended the battle.

Dempsey stood over the fallen French idol until the count was finished and then tenderly picked up the bleeding and dazed Frenchman.

ROUND 1.

They were sent away at 3:18. Carpentier landed a light left and clinched. He landed a right. Carpentier missed a right but connected with a left back. Dempsey punished him, beating him unmercifully. Carpentier was groggy and bleeding at the nose. Dempsey missed a right swing, but beat Carpentier as they clinched. Carpentier fell through the ropes trying to avoid a punch. He flew into Dempsey when he crawled back into the ring and landed several blows on the champion's body at the bell. Dempsey had the better of the round.

ROUND 2.

Carpentier missed with a left and clinched. Carpentier backed away and Dempsey hooked him with a right to the jaw. Dempsey following after him beating him around the head with a right. Carpentier was short with the left hook but he staggered the champion with six rights and left to the jaw. Dempsey staggered back a bit and sent the Frenchman's left eye with a hook. The cut was under the eye. Carpentier missed a right swing. Dempsey missed a right swing. They exchanged body punches in the clinch as the bell rang.

ROUND 3.

Carpentier ducked a left hook. Dempsey backed into the ropes and hooked him with a short right. Carpentier landed two uppercuts to the body in a clinch. As they clinched Dempsey punished the invader in the body, and Carpentier nearly fell down when he missed a right swing. They missed lefts to the head and Dempsey punished Carpentier in the fighting. Dempsey landed a left and right to the head without a return. They exchanged left hook to the chin. Carpentier's right swing was short and Dempsey clubbed him on the jaw with left hooks in the clinch. Dempsey battered Carpentier into a corner with right and lefts and the bell rang, the bell saving Carpentier from a knockout.

ROUND 4.

Dempsey rushed Carpentier to the ropes and a left to the body made him wince. Carpentier landed a right to the head and tried to hang on, Dempsey missed Carpentier.

Carpentier floored. 1-2-3-4-5-6-7-8-9-up. The referee counted. At the count of nine Georges got to his knees and rose in a game but weakened fashion. The champion was on him in a flash and another crushing right to the mid-section followed by a flashing right to the chin with all Dempsey's weight behind it sent Carpentier to the floor. He tried to get up at the count of eight but failed.

Drags Him to Corner

Dempsey dragged Carpentier to his corner after lifting him up, following the knockout.

Dempsey gave Carpentier an unmerciful beating. He opened up a cut under the Frenchman's eye. He battered the Frenchman so viciously around the head with vicious rights and lefts that Carpentier's face was a mass of bruises.

Carpentier fought gamely back at the championship but was outclassed. Once he was half knocked and half pushed to the ropes and most of the time was going away from the champion. Dempsey took after him driving him to the corner whenever he had an opportunity.

Out But Few Seconds

Carpentier was out only a few seconds. Manager Descamps applied first aid as quickly as the dazed challenger dropped into his chair. Police immediately climbed into the ring and made a path for the champion and Carpentier to go to their dressing rooms.

When Dempsey got home the winning punch the sweating crowd that filled the arena was on its feet yelling. The crowd, so apathetic during the preliminaries went wild when the fighters entered the ring. During the three rounds and at the knockout above all was heard the shrieks of the women as blow followed blow and blood was drawn.

Cheer the Frenchman

The sudden manner in which the main bout was staged with postponement of the last preliminary caught the spectators by surprise.

There were cheers when the American was introduced but the crowd when Carpentier was introduced as champion of the old world idol of his country and a soldier of France. As calm and unperturbed a fighter as ever entered the ring the Frenchman kept his eyes turned up watching planes circling overhead with a noisy staccato at the very moment the boxers appeared.

Don't Rush Ring

There was not the usual rush to the ring after the knockout such as

"Feeling Fine"

Manhattan, N. Y., July 2.—George Carpentier left Long Island for Jersey City on the night train at 10:15.

I have had a good sleep and feel fine," was Carpentier's smiling comment as he came out of the house at 7:45 this morning. He dined at 8:30 and indulged in fifteen minutes of setting up exercises to open his eyes and when he had a light breakfast at 7 P. M. He lounged around the house until 7:45 when time for a steam bath and old clothes he emerged for a little exercise along the road.

Surprised to find newspaper men waiting for him at the gate he remarked with a broad smile:

"You are up early haven't you been a bed all night?"

Accompanied by his trainer and his friend Melit and his Belgian collie dog Carpentier started for a bike along the road near his camp. He seemed to possess the natural abandon of a school boy on a picnic.

He executed a jig for the detection and edification of his companions and the newspapermen who trailed him.

Doesn't seem worried," remarked one of the party.

"NEVER FELT BETTER"

Jersey City, July 2.—Never felt better in my life," remarked Jack Dempsey, as he sat down to a light breakfast in a private home where he had spent the night. He slept without interruption from 10 o'clock last night until 7 P. M. this morning.

Hayes, his trainer, who occupied an adjoining room was still asleep when Dempsey awoke and laced himself by taking his trainer's nose until he opened his eyes, then he pulled Hayes out of bed. His breakfast consisted of two boiled eggs, toast, and a pot of tea. Accompanied by Hayes he started out for a walk but such a large crowd followed he was forced to return to the house. Although his abode was kept secret the news leaked out.

BRINTON TELLS OF LOAN MADE FOR SISAL CO.

Says he Borrowed $8,000 and Claims Townley Pledged League Credit

GIVES DETAILS OF DEAL

Court Adjourns Perjury Trial Until Next Tuesday Afternoon

Testimony to the effect that A. C. Townley, president of the National Nonpartisan League, used the credit of the league to endorse a note for $8,000 borrowed for the United States Sisal Trust was given in his perjury trial here today by J. W. Brinton.

A cancelled note for $8,000 on a local bank made to United States Sisal Trust J. W. Brinton and J. R. Waters trustees, carried endorsement on back "Guaranteed National Nonpartisan League A. C. Townley president."

Brinton testified that it was necessary to make up the shortage in the Scandinavian-American bank at Fargo and that he borrowed this money at Townley's suggestion to help make up the shortage. Brinton testified Townley said that J. J. Hastings formerly vice president of the Scandinavian bank was short about $20,000, and the Sisal Trust the Florida enterprise, Brinton alleges Townley controlled got part of the money.

At noon adjournment was taken until 2 p. m. July 5 because of other court business to be transacted this afternoon and Tuesday morning.

The check which Brinton said he gave to cover up the shortage in the Scandinavian bank was gone into thoroughly. He was questioned as to his statement that he gave the check on the suggestion of William Lemke and O. E. Loftus in his testimony he said that Loftus suggested it to him in the Fargo bank. He did not say that Lemke directly suggested it. He said that Loftus talked to M. W. Thatcher and Lemke about it after suggesting it to him and then told him to do it.

Dunbar on Stand

Other witnesses during the morning included H. B. Dunbar now state license inspector. Pursuing his line of proof in an endeavor to show that many of the league corporations were but dummy corporations, Counsel LeSueur showed Dunbar the stock record book of the Burelle County Farmers Press a league newspaper, showing Dunbar a stockholder and director.

Dunbar said he never paid for the stock and he could not say if there ever was a directors meeting held.

Peter L. Arrhus who said he was general manager of the Publishers National Service Bureau from Jan. 1, 1919 until yesterday, when his resignation was given but not accepted, was called to the stand to produce minute books of that organization. He proved an unsatisfactory witness and Counsel LeSueur dismissed him saying he would lay the foundation for what he intended to prove in a later matter.

Arrhus did divulge that one of the methods of raising money in this concern was through the sale of $15 memberships a fact not before made public.

Stock book and other records of the Publishers National Service Bureau were introduced. They were introduced Counsel LeSueur said for the purpose of showing that a double set of records was kept by the corporation and would be inquired into later.

Said He Wrote Minutes

On the witness stand Brinton swore that no records were made in the minutes book from Feb. 3 to Sept. 11, 1919 that W. W. Liggett came to him told him he was an officer in the company and asked him if he would sign the minutes records of the board of directors meetings required to be held between those dates if Liggett would write them. Brinton said Liggett wrote them and he signed them. The minutes in most cases read: "The time having arrived for transaction of business there was no one present and no business was transacted."

This was another step in LeSueur's efforts to show that practically all of the so-called league corporations were dummy corporations with a few league leaders really directing their activities.

One portion of the information charging J. W. Brinton with perjury today is removed from the case according to Attorney General Lemke.

Mr. Weeks told the court during a lawyers' battle over the admissibility of certain evidence that the state had offered no proof of anything in reference to the Sisal Trust and recalled.

Mr. Weeks said that the state had offered no proof relating to the Sisal Trust in any way shape or manner and said he did not think it was a proper matter for the legisla committee to investigate a perjury charge in which the state could produce no charge of perjury.

Among the things contained in the minutes of the Brinton trial was the fact that Brinton was a stockholder in the Sisal Trust and that he was a director of the same. The minutes also contained a list of the names of the stockholders of the Sisal Trust and a list of the names of the directors of the same.

GUMMER HELD TO ANSWER IN DISTRICT COURT

Hotel Clerk Must Stand Trial on Charge of Murdering Girl

JURY MAKES REPORT

Coroner's Jury Places Blame For Crime Upon Young Man

Fargo, July 2.—William Gummer, hotel clerk, is blamed for the death of Marie Wick, 19, Fargo, Minn., in a local hotel June 7, according to the verdict of the coroner's jury today.

Fargo, N. D., July 2.—William Gummer must stand trial in the district court for the murder of Marie Wick Justice Bingham decided at the conclusion of the preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon. He refused the defense motion to dismiss the defendant because of lack of sufficient evidence.

In presenting his argument to the court States Attorney Green built up a wall of circumstantial evidence intended to exclude the possibility of the crime having been committed by any other man than the defendant. In his argument he pointed out that the defendant had been seen in the hotel room where the girl was found dead in the morning, and that he was the only person who had been in the room at the time.

The only bit of counsel during the entire hearing came when Judge Barnett called Sheriff Kraemer to the stand early in the day to testify to a declaration made by Gummer on June 14.

It was the first move in an effort to get rid of the damaging testimony given by Gummer to officials while he was being grilled in a cell at the Cass county jail. State's Attorney Green objected on the ground that the cross examination was an improper one because the witness was being asked to testify to declarations made not to him but to the state's attorney. The court allowed the first question but sustained Green's second objection relative to the same matter, allowing the testimony considered to be the mainstay of the state's case of evidence to stand.

Visited Room Twice, Claim

Rape was the motive for the crime declared the state's attorney and the man who committed the deed went first into the room and choked and gagged his victim then returned several hours later and completed the murder by beating her on the head with the fire nozzle. The noise heard

Posse of Men Take Her Away in Automobile to Prevent Her Delivering Address

Twin Falls, Idaho, July 2.—Mrs. Kate O'Hare, socialist author and lecturer, is at Montello, Nev., where ten men who yesterday kidnapped her are under arrest, according to a telegram from H. H. Friedheim, sponsor for Mrs. O'Hare here said he received from her today. Mrs. O'Hare has appealed to the governor of Nevada for protection, according to the message.

House Idaho, July 2.—No clue to the whereabouts of Mrs. Kate O'Hare, socialist author and lecturer, who was kidnapped in Twin Falls last night had developed here today. Mrs. O'Hare was taken from the home of H. H. Friedheim, who had arranged for her to deliver a lecture at Twin Falls last night, according to reports. Mrs. O'Hare was taken in an automobile driven by a man who was later identified as Fred Peterson, a local man. The car was later found in the home of a man named O'Hare, who was later identified as the kidnapper.

NOT ALARMED
The kidnapping of Mrs. O'Hare has not alarmed the local community. The car was later found in the home of a man named O'Hare, who was later identified as the kidnapper.

SHERIFF ON THE STAND
Perzina Declares That All Men
Connected with Case
Promptly Arrested

Hettinger July 1—Dr. Rice, coroner of Golden Valley, was a witness Thursday in the Bowen murder trial. He identified the clothes and explained the nature of the wounds that caused the rancher's death.

Perzina, another witness, stated that Taylor had telephoned him that he had shot Bowen and he immediately went and placed Taylor under arrest. Following Taylor's arrest, Perzina's deputies arrested three more defendants, all being held in jail 24 hours after Taylor's arrest.

Mr. Irving, a hotelkeeper at Ollie, Mont., testified that Taylor had remarked to him that he, Taylor, would "kill Bowen yet."

When asked by defendant's counsel whether Bowen had ever made any threats regarding Taylor, the witness answered "yes."

Attorney Simpson for the prosecution objected to the answer of the witness, but was overruled. The attorneys continued to wrangle about this when court adjourned.

Q—How could he say get a glass of water and throw it over her when he didn't know you would be in the room?

A—He says, throw it over the transom, that will wake it up good, and look over the transom and see if anybody is there, he says. I went down and pulled that table over and looked over the transom.

Q—What did you want to pull the table up and look over the transom for when you had the keys to the room in your pocket?

A—I was afraid to tell I had found her dead.

Q—But you had the keys in your pocket when Fritz told you to look over the transom?

A—No.

Q—You got rid of the keys when you got down stairs and hung the safety pins up?

A—I hung them keys up when I went down stairs.

Q—The first time you went up you knocked and rapped at the door?

A—Yes and there was no answer.

Q—And then you didn't look over the transom at all?

The following portion of the state attorney's transcript relates to the statements made by Gummer in which he admitted lying about the telephone call in the death chamber during the evening.

Q—Going back to the early part of the night, about what time did you call her up, or how long after she came in?

A—That night?

Q—Yes.

A—It was around 11:30 in there—close to 11:30—might have been a little before or a little after.

Q—And she was up—it only took her a moment to answer the phone?

A—Yes.

Q—What was the first words you said when you called her?

A—I asked her if she had gone to bed.

Q—What did she say?

A—Admits Calling Her Up.

A—She said something about she was going to bed right away, or just about ready to go to bed, I says, "so early?" She says yes. Right away she brought up about "call me at six o'clock." I says what time do you want your call? She says six o'clock.

Q—What was your idea when you called her up?

A—Well, I called her up because if she had started to carry on the conversation and started kidding along—if she had let on that she was a sporty girl and I thought that there was anything doing naturally I would have went up there.

Q—Didn't you ask her if she needed any help?

A—I might have asked her if she needed any help to go to bed or something like that but anything I asked her she says—

Q—She said No?

A—She chopped off—didn't want to talk about it but says you call me at 6:00 o'clock. She brought that in different times about being sure to call her at 6:00 o'clock.

Q—You told us this afternoon you went over to meet that rain. You did no go did you?

A—No I didn't.

Q—What train was that—N. P. No. Four?

A—Yes.

Q—Why not?

A—Brown had either gone or just left. I kind of think we was talking, and I didn't have—usually at night I had a letter of Fritz's to take over down there to the further box.

Q—That night O'Brien had been in and got a stamp from me and he asked me where this letter was going, what box—and I told him, and he says he would take it over and mail it and he did.

Q—The next morning Mrs. Lawrence asked you if you had made that train?

A—Yes.

Q—What did you reply?

A—I told her yes. She didn't spring it that way. She said—how did she have it—she asked me how long I was out last night and was I over to the depot.

Q—What did you tell her?

A—That I beat it over and right back, that I didn't go till I heard the train.

Q—(Kraemer)—You told me you met Brown over there and he came and talked a little while and

A—Met him at the depot?

Q—Oh, you didn't tell me his name then but you said your friend.

A—I beg your pardon.

Q—Think a minute.

A—Yes.

Q—I was asking about how long your friend was over there visiting you.

A—He was over there about an hour.

Q—You told me you met your friend at the train.

A—Met Brown at the train?

Q—Yes you did, Bill.

A—No Brown came in the lobby and I was sitting there behind the desk.

Q—But you told me the other day—

A—That I met Brown at the depot?

Q—Yes that he stopped at the depot when you were going over and he was going home or something. Today you change it.

Q—(Milligan)—Throughout all this investigation and talk you have told us lots of lies.

A—Yes, but no lies I have told you amount to anything.

It was a solemn faced handful of people that left the court room yesterday afternoon when the case had been continued until 9:30 a. m. today. The atmosphere was more strained than at any time before and there was little laughing as they filed out.

Except for two or three periods, when his face flushed a dark hue, when listening to testimony relative to his past conduct with women, Gummer's attitude was unchanged during the hearing.

The floor plan below shows a model kitchen arrangement, with the HOOSIER logically located as the center of the working area. In such a kitchen your HOOSIER will save you the greatest possible number of steps and will be at its best in making your kitchen work a delight.

HOOSIER Helps You All Day Long

It is not just a mealtime helper—but a real step-saver. The HOOSIER has been developed and perfected over a period of 22 years, with the sole idea of making woman's work easier.

That is why the central section of HOOSIER is so open and unobstructed—giving plenty of elbow-room and doing away with those corners and partitions which serve no useful purpose.

Experience has proved over and over again that this uncluttered work space is the only logical arrangement to make work not only easier—but easiest. Yet HOOSIER is the only cabinet which provides this extra large, extra convenient working space.

Every detail of HOOSIER construction and design has been brought out just as carefully as this. Because of this inherent superiority, HOOSIER is today America's favorite kitchen convenience, reducing the work and increasing the leisure of two million American housewives.

by the maid, May Mellars, was said to be that of the murderer on his second visit to the death chamber. When he first went to room 30 for the purpose of raping the young woman he was heard by Mrs. Van Worst, some time between 12:30 and 1 o'clock. The attorney brought out how the experiments conducted by one of the officers in room 30 a couple of days afterward had been identified by Mrs. Van Worst as resembling those she had heard on the night in question.

The murderer must have been a man from the inside of the hotel—either an employee or a guest—the state's attorney averred. The freedom with which he moved about while doing his fiendish work, utterly excluded the possibility of it having been someone from the outside. It was contended. The use of the fire nozzle in heating the girl was interpreted further as indicative of the work of an inside person.

Murderer Familiar With House
"The man who committed this crime knew where to get the nozzle and we have no outsider taking the unnecessary chance of standing in the hall unscrewing the hose nozzle, knowing he might be surprised at any time," said the state's attorney. "The murderer not only took the nozzle from the hose, wiped it, practically eliminating every trace of blood, but returned the nozzle to its place and placed the towels underneath the covers."

"An outsider would have no possible object in doing this. In fact, from his standpoint, he would leave the nozzle in the room to make it appear an inside job. The man inside the house, however, by putting it back in place and eliminating all traces of its use would make it appear that the weapon with which the crime was committed was taken into the hotel by the murderer and taken out again when he left."

The use of the light in the room which was evidenced by the bloody bulb was again brought up in further corroboration of the theory that no one except a man who was familiar with the hotel and the actions of the night clerk could have done the deed. The night clerk, said the state's attorney, was the only man who knew the location of rooms, etc., in the hotel and was the only person who could move about at will without having to fear being seen on the floor as he had duties that brought him to any place in the hotel.

Girl Choked
In tracing the course of the crime the state's attorney said that the murderer had gone into room 30 and had immediately pounced upon his victim and choked her. The night clerk had made advances to the girl in the early part of the evening and had been repulsed, and the man who committed this murder knew that the girl in the bed would not let any man lay his hands upon her without making an outcry; therefore he wanted to silence her," said Mr. Green. The fact that the girl had been choked into unconsciousness before she was beaten was declared to be proven by the condition of the pillowcase found thrust into her throat. This had been found to be clean and without blood spots. After the girl was choked her hands were tied to the bedposts and she was raped.

While the murderer was about his work the light in the room must necessarily have been on, because of the neat condition in which the knots were found. It would have been impossible to do the job as well in the dark. His terrible work completed, the man had left the room, leaving the girl lying as she was.

As to the second visit the state's attorney's theory was that the murderer had again come into the room, and looking down upon the bed had seen the accusing eyes of the agonized girl stare at him with recognition. Then the murderer decided that he must close those eyes for good, for the sake of his own safety, and going into the hall he had taken the nozzle of the fire hose, gone back into the room and completed his work.

GIRLS BECOME BANK OFFICERS

When news was received at Dakota Business College, Fargo, N. MASSIVE WOODEN BOWL AT NEW JERSEY RING SIDE usually follows championship bouts. What rush did start soon was checked by a heavy detail of police around the ring.

The throng which during the bout rose and sank in its seats in a wave which rippled from ringside to ring sat in their places after the knock-out came. The crowd cheered the conqueror but it also cheered the vanquished. The Frenchman's supporters stayed round his corner until he was revived—the battle of the ring over.

Carpenter Enters First
Carpenter entered the ring at 2 o'clock and went immediately to his dressing room. He looked as dapper as ever and was unnoticed by all but a few of the 90,000 spectators. In front of him marched Francois Des camps chattering to himself with Parisian abandon and gesticulating as he led the way to the dressing room. The crowd was extraordinarily quiet for a fight audience. During the first bout there was hardly a sound but the going and the thud of blows.

There was a sigh of relief at the end of the first bout. The crowd still was apathetic, munching its lunch as the preliminaries wended their way through the program. At 1:15 it began to sprinkle. Only the rail birds with nothing but the wide, wide world behind them dared to raise an umbrella.

A slight rumble broke out in one section but soon was quieted. Apparently the dispute was over seat tickets.

House Sold Out
In a few minutes a slight shower that started had ended. Announcement was made at 1:30 that "the house was sold out," meaning that 91,600 seats were occupied. The referee stopped the Herman Metrangas bout in the sixth round, when Metrangas was helpless on the ropes.

At 2 o'clock the crowd began shedding coats and soon became a shirt sleeve party.

Jack Dempsey left for the arena from the home of William C. Sheppard, bank president and millionaire sportsman, where he spent the night, at 2:35 o'clock this afternoon.

Dempsey was given a rousing cheer by a crowd of several thousand persons as he emerged from the house escorted by Chief of Police Bentley. The champion entered an automobile and preceded by a squad of motorcycle policemen, was driven to the arena through a lane of cheering admirers. Dempsey smiled and waved his hand in friendly greeting to the crowd.

APPETITE GOOD
The champion had not let the coming bout affect his appetite. When the call came for dinner Jack was first among the present. He ate generous portions of steak, potatoes, string beans, toast and wound up with a large pot of tea.

Before luncheon the champion engaged in a pool game with Mayor Bader, of Atlantic City, who accompanied him here from his training camp.

At 1 P. M. the crowd around the house became so dense that police had to disperse it.

STAGE ALL SET.
Ringside, Jersey City, July 2—The carnival of blows with tens of thousands massed today about a little eight foot ring opened at 12:10 with a preliminary bout that served as a cocktail for the feast—the world's championship fight.

The first fight was between Mickey Del Monte and Jackie Curtin.

After sitting for hours in a wooden bowl beneath a lowering sky, the army of spectators shrugged the kink out of their backs and prepared to view the world's greatest fight in the world's greatest arena.

The first preliminary an eight-round bout was put on early in an effort by Promoter Rickard to clean up the preliminaries, so as to get an early start on the championship mill. An aeroplane circled below the ring, from which pictures were taken.

Band Amused.
Tex Rickard's wandering minstrel band made a hit at the show, sitting in snow white jackets. They wandered from ringside to rim to make sure that no one escaped their jazz.

CROWD COSMOPOLITAN
New Jersey, July 2—Outside the arena the cosmopolitan nature of the crowd became apparent during the early afternoon rush. A squad of American doughboys wearing bayonets in their hats attesting the sentiment for Carpenter, who was described as "buddy," was followed into the turnstiles by a group of Cubans loudly proclaiming their interest in the French challenger. Not far away were four Japanese whose wild expressions failed to give a indication of their thoughts. Then came Greeks, Italians, Armenians, Poles, men, Frenchmen, Scandinavians, South Americans, Portuguese, Spaniards and Canadians—in fact representatives from nearly all the races that make up the country's population.

Governor Edwards was given a big reception as he passed the house crowd outside the arena.

THEY MADE YOU FREE
One hundred and forty-five years ago this Fourth of July, a group of "down-east Yankees" put their heads in a noose by signing the Declaration of Independence.

That document gave birth to the United States. It forever ended rule of Americans by kings. To it you owe your political independence and republican self-government.

When the Declaration of Independence was signed, July 4, 1776, the battles of Lexington, Concord and Bunker Hill had been fought and Washington had taken charge of the Continental army.

With that much of a start toward independence, it would seem that the Declaration would have gone through speedily.

But Congress was nearly as slow in those days as now.

The first resolution of independence was introduced June 7 by Richard Henry Lee, of Virginia. It was debated, referred to committee, and nearly a month went by before it was adopted.

As with all big questions, the public was divided.

John Adams, who for two years had been boldly advocating independence, wrote: "I was avoided like a man infected with leprosy, and walked the streets of Philadelphia in solitude, borne down by the weight of care and unpopularity."

Of the delegates from the 13 original colonies, those from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware and South Carolina were at first opposed to severing British rule.

Thomas Jefferson arrived in Philadelphia and was delegated to write the formal Declaration of Independence.

He went about it leisurely—rented a room on a second floor in a quiet neighborhood and had a carpenter make him a special desk three feet high and 14 by 10 inches on top. On this table, he penned the Declaration, probably with his collar off, for that June was hot.

The document came within an ace of going into the waste basket. Jefferson was gloomy as it was debated. Ben Franklin sat at his elbow and tried to cheer him up with funny stories.

Meantime, the public, cursing Congressional delay, melted up lead plate into bullets and shot their way toward freedom.

July 2, not the Glorious Fourth, is really Independence Day, for Lee's resolution severing us from England was passed in secret session the second of July. Jefferson's elaborated and formal document was passed and signed two days later, and was not made public until the sixth.

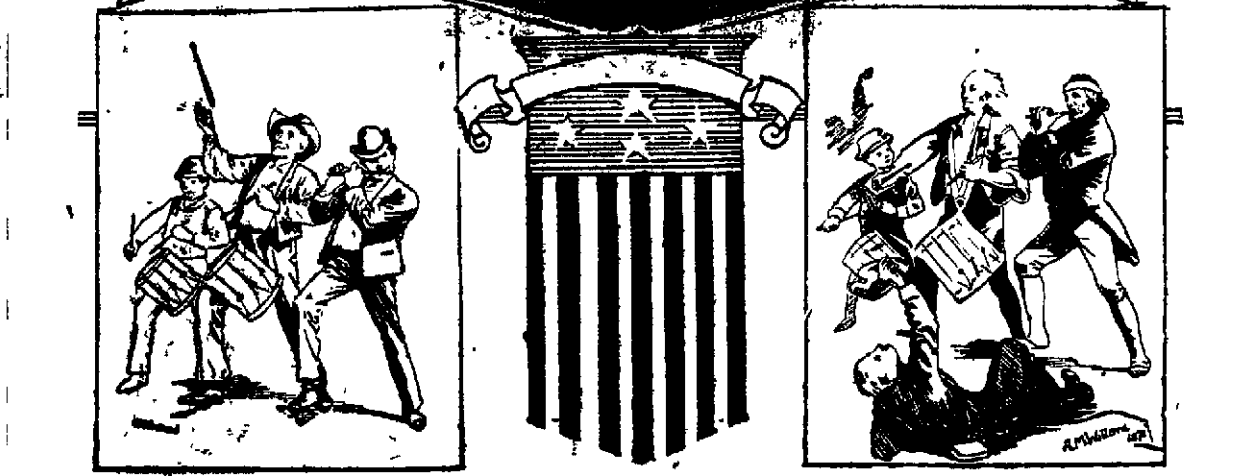

The date doesn't make much difference.

What really counts is the Declaration's great principles of individual freedom. The best comment was written July 3, 1776, by John Adams to his wife:

"The second day of July will be the most memorable epoch in the history of America. I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be commemorated as the day of deliverance, by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parades and shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations, from one end of this continent to the other, from this time forward forevermore."

Dawes says Congress has given him a tooth-pick to tunnel Pike's Peak. "Peak" aptly describes the budget.

"SPIRIT OF '76" BEGAN AS A COMIC AND BECAME AMERICA'S MOST POPULAR PATRIOTIC PAINTING

Real Characters Posed For Art Piece That Won Willard Fame

By Dr. William E. Barton.
When Archibald M. Willard set out to make a picture of a fife and two drummers as a recognition of the Centennial of American Independence he had no thought that he was setting his foot upon the threshold of fame.
He meant to add another to his long list of humorous pictures.
But he painted the most popular patriotic picture that America has ever known.
"The Spirit of '76."

Willard had always liked to draw. In his boyhood days, no fence was sacred to him. As a soldier in the Civil War he made sketches and sent them back to the folks at home.
After the war he established himself at Wellington, Ohio, as a painter in a carriage manufactory.
Those were the days of the chromo and Willard proceeded to make many pictures, which were reproduced by J. F. Ryder, a Cleveland art dealer, and sold to their mutual profit.

The Centennial year was approaching, and Willard undertook what he hoped would be his most popular humorous picture, a burlesque on the old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration.
He had his characters near at hand. His fier, was Hugh Mosher, a soldier of the Civil War, the boy drummer was Harry Devereaux, of Cleveland.
For the central figure, Willard got his father to pose.
The old preacher was himself nothing less than heroic. He was tall and grim and of Revolutionary blood, and he imparted to the picture something which from the first made it difficult to treat it in the spirit of the comic.

Started All Over.
One day, after many attempts to satisfy himself with the humorous picture, Willard threw it aside and started anew. He transferred his three musicians from the hayfield and rustic celebration to the battlefield. Then every suggestion of the comic vanished.

His father was taken sick, and never recovered. Willard worked by day on his painting and by night watched beside his father and every day he put more of his father's character into the face and figure of the old man.
The painting was completed, and exhibited at Philadelphia. He called it "Yankee Doodle." But the people re-named it "The Spirit of '76." It made Willard famous as the foremost American patriotic painter. It put wagon-painting far behind him.

It did not occur to Willard when he made his famous painting that the three characters in it might be taken for son, father and grandfather but other people were quick to think of it, and Willard liked the idea. Though he told me it was one he borrowed from the lovers of the picture and not his original thought.
Willard died in Cleveland in 1918 and is buried in Wellington where he painted wagons and rose to fame.

BRINTON TELLS OF LOAN MADE FOR SISAL CO.

"Well, I was engaged as one of the managers or men to look into the Sisal Trust and shortly after that time we were informed by Mr. Townley that there was a shortage of some ten or twelve thousand dollars in the Scandinavian-American bank funds that had been taken out of the institution and placed in the Sisal Trust."
The defense was seeking to prove the embezzlement as a part of Brinton's charge that money was taken from the Bank of North Dakota to the Scandinavian-American bank and there embezzled. The court ruled the evidence was admissible as a part of the defense effort to prove this.
Sisal Trust Prominent.
The Sisal Trust figured prominently in the testimony of Brinton, on the witness stand all day yesterday for himself, toward the close of the long session, which continued until nearly 6 P. M.
Brinton said that he and J. R. Waters took over the management of the Sisal Trust for Townley from J. J. Hastings and Thomas A. Len Box. A letter from J. J. Hastings to Thomas Harvey at Miami, Fla., was introduced, which Brinton said represented his credentials from Hastings in turning over the Florida Sisal property.

Further endeavoring to connect the defense introduced a letter written from J. J. Hastings, as vice president of the Scandinavian-American bank, to Harvey saying, among other things, that Harvey should try and sell stock as heavy loans were being carried and saying "I makes an awful load for us to carry." Hastings wanted him to sell stock to tourists in Florida adding, "I sure hate to keep on going out and borrowing money from our North Dakota farmers."
A claim of Hastings for services in the Sisal Trust was read and Brinton said Townley told him "I guess we'd better pay it."
Another letter which excited interest was from Mrs. Elda Lundin, of Brooklyn, N. Y., widow of Ernest Lundin, whom Brinton said was a former employe in the management of the Sisal enterprise and who died in St. Paul. The letter was addressed to "J. W. Brown" which Brinton said was the name by which he was known to her. The letter was dated October 23, 1920 and it said in part:
"I did not see Mr. Townley but his attorney, Mr. Paddock, and through him Mr. Townley treated me nice."
Mr. Townley paid the hospital and the doctor bought the coffin and sent Lundin's body to Miami. I got my fare back and $75 or $80 in cash. I do not remember exactly how much."
Mr. Paddock seemed to know that place in Silver Palm was mortgaged for $1,200 and so it was. He promised that it would be paid and that I should not worry over the mortgage, he mentioned it at least three or four times.

He said that Mr. Townley was looking after my interest and I would have my share in the Sisal enterprise just the same but how much or in which way he did not say.

Shown Statement.
Brinton said that Townley had shown him a statement of the Nonpartisan Publishing company with the explanation that I don't want you to think that I'm using money in Florida that don't belong to me." Brinton said that Townley told him that it had been agreed by "Lemke and the boys" that Townley was to have the publishing company which published the Nonpartisan League Leader.

The examination of Brinton up to telling the jury how a shortage existed in the Scandinavian-American bank of something like $11,000, which he alleged existed and was created by Hastings. It was this shortage which Brinton alleged he gave a $11,000 check to cover with the consent of O. E. Lofthus, so that a showing could be made to the supreme court for the Scandinavian bank, then closed, and which check Brinton alleged was held for 11 days until the funds were raised to meet it.

Details of his connection with various Nonpartisan League enterprises were given by Brinton to the jury.

Packing Plant Note.

Among the statements in the case in addition to previous testimony before the house committee last winter was a declaration by Brinton that funds of the Equity Packing company, of Fargo, had been used for the Scandinavian-American bank. Brinton said that the Equity company had about $100,000 in certificates of deposit which they did not need at the time, in the summer of 1918. The Equity company allowed the Scandinavian-American bank to use them and Brinton took them to Twin Cities and borrowed $75,000 for the Scandinavian-American bank, he said. Brinton testified he did this at the direction of J. J. Hastings, then vice president. He said Hastings told him the bank had to get cash even if he had to offer them "at a liberal discount."

Another bit of finance of the Consumers store was related by Brinton. He said that the Consumers Stores contract required that $10,000 be put back in each local store. The organizers obtained chiefly notes from farmers for stock, he said, and the directors of the store enterprise "constructed" the contract to mean that the money realized from $10,000 of notes should be put back. He said that the notes usually were put up as collateral, and usually two to one, so that although they had $10,000 in notes, probably only $5,000 would be put back, in the store.

"THE SKY PILOT" AT THE ELTINGE

"The Sky Pilot," written by Ralph Connor is the story of a young minister who is sent into the Canadian ranch country to spread the gospel among the cowboys. His trials and tribulations, his fights, his hope are portrayed by John Bowers who plays the title role with Colleen Moore as the girl. How the pilot, unpopular at first, wins a place for himself in the hearts of the cowboys, who surprise him on Christmas morning by leading him blindfolded down a snow covered trail to show him the little frame church they have built without his knowledge, forms the human note of the story which is featured by several thrilling scenes. "The Sky Pilot" with Kinograms and Topics of the Day begins a three-day showing at the Eltinge, Monday, the 4th of July.

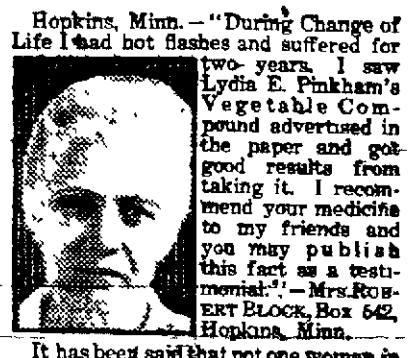

Elaine Hammerstine At The Rex

"The Girl From Nowhere," a new Seiznick picture starring Elaine Hammerstine last night provided the feature film entertainment at the Rex. Tonight will be the last night for this splendid photoplay for the Fourth of July. "Slam Bang Jim" with William Russell as the star is the screen feature at the Rex.
To give an additional dressing for the day an O'Henry story "The Church With an Overshot Wheel" will be presented.

The Japanese rickshaw is said to have been invented by a Yankee missionary.

HOW WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

May Escape the Dreaded Sufferings of that Period by Taking Mrs. Block's Advice

Hopkins, Minn. — "During Change of Life I had hot flashes and suffered for two years. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the paper and got good results from taking it. I recommend your medicine to my friends and you may publish this fact as a testimonial." — Mrs. ROBERT BLOCK, Box 642, Hopkins, Minn.
It has been said that not one woman in a thousand passes this perfectly natural change without experiencing a train of very annoying and sometimes painful symptoms. Those dreadful hot flashes, sinking spells, spots before the eyes, dizzy spells, nervousness, are only a few of the symptoms. Every woman at this age should profit by Mrs. Block's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham, Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., about your health. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

You will see at a glance that nearly every item represents a new tangled tax imposed by the laws of 1919. Prior to 1919 all property was assessed for taxation in the manner prescribed by law. The procedure was simple and inexpensive. Then all tax levies were based on assessed valuation and the state tax levy, and all of it was—as it is now—limited to four mills on the dollar of the assessed valuation (Constitution Sec. 174, 176). But now all constitutional limitations are disregarded. The state levies an income tax, motor vehicle tax and several other kinds of taxes wholly unknown to the constitution. In the same manner it may levy a special tax on cows, horses and on everything that you can touch or see, and the worst of it all is that under the prevailing tax commissioner and tax supervisor system property has been quite uniformly assessed at far more than its true and productive value and at three times that of any year prior to 1919. Then to that assessment the State Board of Equalization added about forty per cent in 1919 and the same process was continued in 1920. Then, in 1921, the state and the local tax levies were boosted to correspond with the increased assessments, and to that there was added all the new tangled taxes as shown by the above statement. The result is that for the two years a large part of the taxes, about thirty per cent—

for variety Can Loganberries

Here is one of the many delicious ways to can loganberries:

Loganberry Preserve

One pound fruit.
One and one-quarter pound sugar.
Add 1 1/2 cups water to sugar and boil until it spins, or 245° to 250° if thermometer is used. At this temperature add berries, boil slowly, skimming continually. Do not stir. When syrup breaks from spoon as in jelly, take off from fire and cool quickly. If you desire fruit to remain whole, do not stir. Fill in dry sterilized glass covers with melted paraffin. Keep in cool place.

LOGANBERRIES have a distinctive flavor that makes them especially desirable for canning—and affords a pleasing change in canned fruits. They are delightfully different. They make delicious pies, jams, preserves. Loganberry Syrup makes a refreshing drink.

The Loganberry season is short. Put up plenty now—in several different ways—in Ball Mason jars. Give your family a treat next winter.
